Businessmen join Colma recall move

The Colma Business Association has thrown its weight behind the group attempting to recall three Colma city councilmen. In a statement being circulated this week to all citizens and businesses in the community, the association urges those "who feel as we do, that you have been compromised, intimidated and embar-rassed, all without due process of representation," to support the recall of Mayor Eugene Daneluz, Vice Mayor Fred Garbini and Councilman Raymond Ottoboni.

A group of local citizens, including former Police Chief Jim Dorris, began the recall movement when the council accepted Dorris' resig-nation on a 3-2 vote.

Although about 50 businessmen and citizens asked the council to keep Dorris on at any cost and Dorris said he was willing to negotiate with the council, the council refused to reconsider its acceptance of his resignation — again, with a 3-2 vote. The council named Lt. Art Dol-losso chief of police at a subsequent

Specifically, the document says the trio has "exhibited a blatant attitude of inconsistency and self-interest and ... open ridicule of all attempts by concerned individuals trying to help solve problems or provide alternatives ..."

City Clerk Frances Liston said Garbini, Ottoboni and Daneluz have filed replies to the charges made by the recall group and that recall proponents could begin circulating peti-tions as soon as this weekend.

All the closets and several entire

Why is Mrs. Hahn moving? "It's not on account of the mortgage, that's for sure!" she said with a twinkle in her eye. "I've been living by myself since before I retired over 30 years now. Most of my grandchildren, a sister and a son and a daughter are up in Woodland, west of Sacramento, so I'm going to live in a condominium there."

She spoke enthusiastically about having a dishwasher, garbage disposal, fireplace and washer and dryer for the first time when she moves later this month.

Still, it's hard to imagine the tiny grey-haired woman with her support hose and sensible shoes, lace tains and vintage furniture in a slick new condo with a cement carport and a community swimming pool.

"I'll leave behind a lot of memo-ries, that's for sure," she said in a soft voice. "My father was the kind who brought lots of company home We'd roll up the rug and dance to the player piano."

Her faded blue eves lit up as she recalled the first years she spent in Daly City with her parents and four younger brothers and sisters. Their simple wood frame home was one of only eight houses on Willits Street that were well separated by cabbage patches and gardens of violets. Today there are 31 houses on the

Mrs. Hahn said the violets belonged to a man named Consi who rose at 3 a.m. every day to pick them and take them to market. "It

Her family decided to move when she finished grammar school in a country schoolhouse in Contra Costa County and her parents were faced with buying a second horse and buggy for her to travel to the nearest high school. Her father, a baker in San Francisco, was spending only weekends with the family. Commute times for everyone were reduced when they moved to Daly City.

There was no electricity back then and Mrs. Hahn remembers seeing only an occasional car rumbling down the unpaved streets.

Later, then they had indoor plumbing, there were as many as 10 people living in the house sharing the same bathroom. "We never argued over the bathroom. Today, I have one grandchild who gets in there and spends half the day," she chuckled

The tone of her voice changed abruptly as our photographer stooped down to take her picture. She quickly crossed her ankles in a ladylike fashion and eyed the camera warily as she commanded.

"Hurry up and snap that thing!"

Powerful potion for sanitation district ailments: money

Money was the magic remedy North San Mateo County Sanitation District directors used Monday to rectify three problems facing the sewer district, which serves Daly City, Colma and unincorporated

They plunked down $18,620 to hire a bank to issue refunds to sewer users who were overcharged about $400,000; authorized Manager Peter Archuleta to negotiate a $25,000 contract to correct persistent odor problems with the sewage treatment plant, and approved hefty raises for eight categories of employees.

Archuleta said the higher salaries are needed to attract people to fill job openings. The district approved payment of the fatter paychecks, retroactive to April 1, at a cost of $4,552 this fiscal year.
Temporary employees have completed the tedious task of retrieving information from water meter books that will be used to recalculate the 22,000 erroneous bills that were mailed out last fall.

Archuleta said the district hopes to issue refunds before June and to straighten out its books by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

The Board of Directors voted unanimously Monday to hire the First National Bank of Daly City to calculate and issue the refunds, at a

Just who is to blame for the overbilling never has been determined. One director, William Schumacher, and former Manager David Gehre implied that the district's outside engineering firm, Resources, Engineering and Management of South San Francisco, was at fault because REM prepared the erroneous bills. But REM argued that the board had approved that company's plan to fatten the district's coffers by charging sewer users 88 cents per 100 cubic feet of water instead of the 59-cent rate previously used.

They have to adjust for a long UAL strike

By HEIDI VAN ZANT United Airlines employees either on strike or laid because of it are hurting in an especially painful - the pocketbook.

Daly City residents Clarence and Iberia Hamlet, th of whom work for United, closed escrow Monday on their first home. The strike came at a particularly pportune time for this family of six.

And for another United employee, Gary Gutierrez, strike means he will have to reduce the number of days he attends school in San Jose. If it lasts too long, he is prepared to move out of the luxury apartment in San Bruno he just rented.

Clarence Hamelt, 52, has been through three United strikes in his 28 years with the airline company, and practice is not making perfect.

His wife, whose last day was Friday, has worked at United 10 years as a telephone sales agent in the freight department. Mrs. Hamlet is eligible for unemployment, because she is not on strike but laid off because of it.

Their combined monthly income will drop from $2,500 to $800 during the strike. Hamlet plans to do some house painting on the side, because "it'll at least keep us

After three weeks on strike he is eligible for about $40 a week in strike benefits. They both filed for unemployment this week on the chance he would be eligible.

This past weekend the couple and their four children moved into their first home, in Westlake. One advantage to having time off, Hamlet said, is that it gave him time to make the move

Even though the couple had been hearing talk of a strike for several months, they still could not prepare financially for it. Hamlet said, pointing to his new home

Another report from the National Center for Health Statistics indicates that currently more than seven million Americans are being actively treated by doctors for chronic back pain and, that new cases are being added at a rate of almost two million a year. According to this second report, at the rate back pain is spreading, in three years more people will suffer from chronic and recurring back problems than from any other single medical ailment. NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT AND PUBLIC HEARING

STUDIES FOR ROUTE 92 FREEWAY GAP CLOSURE AND ROUTES 92/101 INTERCHANGE COMPLETION

The California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) is studying the possible closure of the gap in Route 92 freeway and completion of the Routes 92/101 Interchange in the City of San Mateo. The proposed work would include elimination of an at-grade signalized intersection with a city street, reconstruction of portions of the existing interchange, construction of two new bridges across Marina Lagoon, and construction of additional roads for local service. Marina Lagoon is a recreational resource of considerable local importance and, therefore, this project would involve property protected under Section 4(f) of the Department of Transportation Act of 1966. Both of the build alternates include taking a small area of seasonal Wetland as described by Corps of Engineer's regulations and Executive Order 11990.

DOCUMENTS Copies of the Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) AVAILABLE and maps are available for inspection at the CALTRANS' Information Center, 150 Oak Street, San Francisco, on weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Copies of the DEIS are also available for inspection at the Department of Public Works, City of San Mateo, and at the main branch of the San Mateo City Library

If you wish to comment on the statement, you may submit your written comments until Monday, May 21, 1979, to the Department of Transportation, at the address below.

public hearing has been scheduled for Thursday, April 19 1979, 7:30 p.m. at:

> Serra High School, Auditorium 451 W. 20th Avenue San Mateo, CA

The hearing will give you an opportunity to present your views about any facet of the project before a decision regarding the project is made.

For further information about the project or any transportation matter, please contact CALTRANS at 557-1640

Not a game for smokers

By RICHARD C. MOON
A label on the box reads:
"WARNING! This game is addictive, could save your life and may be hazardous to the health of tobacco

The game is called 'Smokers Wild' and is trademarked by Gamma Two Games, Ltd. of Vancouver, B.C., Canada. It is designed to be a blend of fun and macabre humor derived from whose its area. derived from what its prod-ucers consider to be one of the world's worst habits

The game is certainly a king-sized spoof of smoking and the tobacco industry. While the game is fun and done with great humor, it is obvious that its deeper intent is to inspire smokers. intent is to inspire smokers to quit and to deter anyone from starting. All players - the game can be played by two to six, ages 10 to adult — start as healthy and wealthy non-smokers. But a roll of the dice can turn any player into a four-pack-a-day smoker of zany cigarette brands. Once "hooked," financial and medical prob-lems pile up. And so the object of the game and your aim is to avoid starting to smoke or to quit as soon as possible

The game board is very well done and of interesting design. It has two circular tracks. The outer track counts off the days of your life, with one space equaling 13 days. It is around this track that you move your token to the throw of the dice.

The inside track is called the "Lifeometer" and marks off the years of your life. Every time you com-plete one circuit of the outer track, your Lifeome-ter token is advanced one space. space.

In addition to the colorful game board, the game equipment consists of 24 "Have A Puff" cards, 12 cigarette brand cards, a set of play money, 12 tokens, 2 dice, and instructions.

The instructions for Smokers Wild tell us that in real life people usually become smokers in one of two ways, by being influenced by advertising or by succumbing to peer pressure from friends. So, in the game you can become a smoker by landing on an advertising space or on the space of a cigarette brand matching a card held by another player.

During the course of the game, players assume various roles: The Undertaker, the Doctor, the Tax Man, the Tobacco Planter, and so on. Playing these characters will involve you in some funny and some not so funny situations as you collect and pay out play money called "Koffs." is packaged bookcase style for easy storage on a shelf or bookcase.

Smoking always has been controversial. In California it was a hot political issue in the last election. Smokers Wild would make a good gift from any antismoker to any smoker or to anyone you would hate to see start smoking. It is well done and fun to play with a not-so-subtle timely theme. There are many aspects of this game which space won't permit describing here. But the basic idea is clear. This is an anti-smokrear. This is an anti-smok-ing game, with the winner being the player who avoids the nicotine fit and man-ages to survive the longest. The average playing time is under one hour and the cost is about $10. The game

You might not call it "the last gasp in games." But that is what Gamma Two Games calls it.

Animal Forum A Labrador

that runs off

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM QUESTION: What do you do with a dog that keeps running away? Our Labrador is a very friendly and loving pet. Most of them are. He probably doesn't actually run away, but sometimes finds other homes in our neighborhood homes in our neighborhood and stays all night. He enjoys kids and they like him. We don't have any. At least six times in the past four months we have had to go cruising around looking for him.

I thought dogs, especially males, established their territory and always would return home. We're at the point now of getting rid of him. Is there any hope that his wanderlust can be cured?

U. P.

ANSWER: As you point out, Labradors are very friendly dogs and make excellent pets. They usually like children and love to play with them. Any dog with wanderlust is a problem, however, no mat-ter how loveable he is. My suggestions would be the usual ones such as building a fence to confine him, take him on long runs daily so he could look forward to that for exercise and socialization.

It might be an idea to have a neighbor child run him on a regular basis. Castration is helpful in male dogs that are wander ing due to females in heat, but that wouldn't be too but that wouldn't be too successful if he is just visiting friends in the area. He definitely needs to be confined for his own protec-

QUESTION: I had a kitten I gave to a friend and found out it was invested with worms, fleas and ear mites. The kitten was from one of the litters of my own cat which I have owned for a long time. She formerly was a stray. What has hap-pened to the kitten makes me feel bad. How can I prevent such infestation in the future? K. C. K. ANSWER: The kitten no doubt was infected with fleas, worms and ear mites from its mother. Have her checked by your veterinar-ian to control these prob-

QUESTION: Is there any law that says you can't bury a pet in your back yard? We've always done it, but a neighbor says this might be illegal. J. M. ANSWER: I checked with the county department of public health — they told me by telephone that burying a small pet in the back yard is legal, but if it's a horse you may have prob-lems. It would be wise to check in the city where you reside to see if it has ordinances preventing such a eyes register them, but your mind refuses them; for they are children, you think, who are waiting for death."

Some 2,000 children die of cancer each year, and about 6,000 youngsters are newly diagnosed annually. Such statistics lead Ms. Schiefelbein to write that the story of children and cancer is one that few people seem

It may be that childhood cancer is contracted for reasons different from the causes of adult cancers. Because environmental carcinogens take some 10 to 20 years to erupt into malignancy, researchers think that genetic factors may be behind some childhood cancers."

'The most common childhood cancer is acute lymphocytic leukemea, a disease of the blood-forming tissues. The next most common forms of cancer in children, in order, are tumors of the central nervous system, tumors of the lymph tissues, such as Hodgkins disease and non-Hodgkins' lymphoma."

Even as Schiefelbein lists these forms of cancer and others, an article by Stewart Brand in Co-Evolution (Spring 1979) warns that chemicals may be the cause of childhood cancer and other ills and that new chemicals now being placed in use already may have done more damage to the human gene pool than nuclear energy

Quoting Bruce Ames of the Biochemistry Department of the University of California at Berkeley, Brand writes: "Damage to DNA environmental mutagens (both natural and man made) is likely to be the major cause of cancer and genetic birth defects and may contribute to heart disease and aging as well. These are

Dance classes start April 24

New spring disco and social dance classes offered by the Daly City Recreation Department will begin April 24 at the Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City.

The disco class, from 6:30 to 8 n.m. is open to hand in social social

6:30 to 8 p.m., is open to those over 16 years old. The social dance class, from 8 to 9:30 p.m., is open to all. Both sesion will be Tuesday

Chappelear is north rep

Katherine Bradshaw Chappelear, recreion super-visor of the city of Daly City recently was installed as the northern representative for the California Parks and Recreation Society at its annual conference in San hustle, disco swing, Latin Hustle, six step and others in the disco class. The social dance instruction will include the tango, swing and waltz.

Advance registration is required and fees won't be accepted at the class. Fees should be sent to the Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd., Daly City 94014. Daly City and Colma residents will be given preference, with nonresidents accepted on a space-available basis after the resident registration deadline. Further information may be obtained by calling the major diseases confronting our society; currently almost one-fourth of us will develop cancer, and a few percent of our children are born with birth defects that might be attributable to DNA damage." But both Ames' and Brand's concern is that "damage to the DNA of our germ cells can result in genetic defects that may show up in our children and in future generations. Thus childhood cancer and other childhood diseases may increase."

Brand and Ames state that mutagens are present among the natural chemicals in our diet; among the man-made chemicals, pesticides, hair dyes, cosmetics, and drugs; and in such complex mixtures as cigarette smoke and contaminants in the air we breathe and the

These authors state that it has been estimated that over 50,000 chemicals produced in significant quantities and currently used in commerce and close to 10,000 new chemicals are introduced every year. Most of these were not tested for carcinogenicity or mutagenicity before

The testing of chemicals and the control of their use is discussed in both the Brand and Ames article in Co-Evolution and the Schiefelbein article in Saturday Review. "It's slow, deep poison," Brand writes. "And there's no antidote, no cure. Only prevention." To illustrate why prevention is necessary he fills his article with pictures of children who have become victims of "lethal numan folly."

"These are not easy pictures to look at," Brand writes, "but neither will it be easy to change the habits personal, commercial, governmental and military, that cause such problems.

Both articles are shocking to the reader, but therein lies their value. Both should be read widely by the American people.

Registration deadline is April 20 for a new eightweek series of guitar lesson offered by the Daly City Recreation Department at the War Memorial Community Center, April 25 to June 13. There will be classes for children eight years and older and adults. Instructor Bunny Gregoire here goes over some basics with student Pat Gardner. Advance registration is required at the rec off-ice, 134 Hillside Blvd. For more information

PRIZE WINNER

John James, right, a science teacher at Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School, recently won a $250 first place check from the California Association of Nurserymen for planting the first tree on Arbor Day, March 14. The 12:01 a.m. planting by James and some of his students was witnessed by several citizens and two Broadmoor police officers. The seventh-grade planting crew included, left to right, Tim Thurman, Eric Quezada, and Allan Wezscheider. Not pictured was Marty Schultz. The tree planted at the school was a small cypress type. There were 175 entries in the statewise CAN con-

For instance, if you have any plumbing or heating work to be done, do it now and you will avoid rising costs and also save money and energy in the meantime.

It will probably just take a few minor repairs to correct a problem. A clean and properly-tuned furnace will mean more comfort for your family—and also lower heating bills. A leaky faucet or connection which is wasting water every day usually can be repaired easily. An improperly regulated water heater wastes energy every hour, but usually it can be adjusted.

The experienced journeymen craftsmen who work for our union contractors install, repair and service plumbing and heating appliances. Or if it's a major remodeling or improvement job you are considering to enhance the value of your home—such as modernizing a kitchen or bathroom—then our members are qualified to help you with ideas, estimates and service.

Always the price will be fair (probably less than you think) and all work is guaranteed. Look for our name listed daily in the newspaper classified sections under "plumbing." In the telephone yellow pages, our listing is on page 766 in the San Mateo County Directory; and on page 492 in the Paio Alto book. Or just keep a copy of this advertisement handy. Looking over the corporate portfolio/scrapbook of memorabilia relating to the opening of the new Brass Elephant Room at the Grosvenor Airport Inn, South San Francisco, are (left to right) Mrs. Cricket Mason; Herb Mason, treasurer of Grosvenor Properties; Mrs. Joan Downes, and Ted Downes, vice president of sales for California Innkeepers. Downes opened the hotel under the banner of Rodeway Inn back in 1971. The operation, acquired by the expanding Grosvenor Properties organization, has been undergoing extensive modernization and expansion, including the Brass Elephant Room for dining, dancing, cocktail lounge and other entertainment. The Grosvenor is also a "Best Western" hotel. The illustration at top of the portfolio above shows the original hotel, and in the center of the lower page is the "Bright Lights" column announcing the opening.

Finocchio's four different shows

FORENCIO DE LOS SANTOS, the sexy Filipino beauty who surprises audiences nightly at the famed FINOCCHIO'S nightclub in San Francisco, is a member of the Finocchio chorus live, the EVE-ETTES, and is a stunning songstress in the solo numbers. Four different shows are featured nightly, except Mondays and Thursdays, with entertainment beginning at 9 p.m. Finocchio's has long been acclaimed as the place for top quality entertainment and lots of fun. One of San Francisco's most delightful dining traditions is Easter Sunday brunch and dinner among the flowers and trees at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant in San Francisco. Brunch from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with dinner from 5 to 11:30 p.m. Lehr's Greenhouse always fills up early on Easter, so for best brunch seating, make reservations for the 9 to 11 a.m. time period. In the relaxed atmosphere of a French country inn, which characterizes L'AUBERGE restaurant in Redwood City, a glance around the intimate canopied bar, in the cozy fireplace room, or the main dining area often reveals prominent people from academic, business and professional fields, as well as social and theatrical circles. Easter Sunday champagne brunch and dinner at the KING'S TABLE in Redwood City are a best bet for families on a budget. Brunch ($3.19) is a bountiful buffet featuring good things like ham, eggs; sausages, pancakes, champagne and much more. Easter dinner ($3.85) spotlights treats like Baked Ham, BBQ Ribs, Chicken, a dazzling array of salads and toothsome desserts. Lower prices for children.

Vince's offers ten luncheon specials

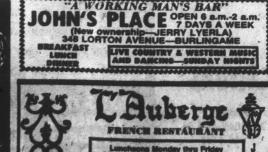

The luncheon line-up at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant offers 10 specials everyday, Monday through Friday, plus an additional daily special each day. All are served with a choice of soup or salad and coffee. Entrees include a choice of pastas, meats and seafood and priced from $3.75 ... There are really two operations at JOHN & KATHY'S PUB in South San Francisco, each offering special attractions in food and drinks. The restaurant is open from $ a.m. to 9 p.m. for breakfast, lunch and dinner. In the adjoining bar and cocktail lounge, "happy hour" well drinks are only 75 cents from 5 to 7 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, with complimentary hors d'oeuvres. Live music and dancing Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights ... "Happy hour" at BEARDSLEY'S, the landmark dinner house and drinkery with the jolly oversize picture drawings on the outside of the building, is indeed a happy time. BOBBIE STAHL presides at the piano bar nightly, Mondays through Saturdays ... Handsome VICO PICCININI, maitre 'd at VILLA JOVANELO'S restaurant in San Mateo, is honored to have been asked to be the godfather of two new infants. He will fly to Los Angeles for one of the occasions ... THE VAN'S is an inviting restaurant in Behmont offering a panoramic view from huge windows and a varied menu for the entire family. Serving on

Gong's service easy and quick

When JOHN CHIANG talks about making it easy, quick and convenient for customers of his GONG's Chinese restaurant to get outside service, he really means business. John has two phones for taking orders — for home delivery, party catering and take-out service. If you're having a party, ask about the special "Oriental Chinese Wo Choy" ... Consistency, quality and reliability make a good formula for a good restaurant, and ROMANO'S Italian and seafood restaurant at Rock-away Beach, Pacifica, is a good example of this. Dapper ENRICO ROMANO and his mother ENRICKETTA see that the food is authentic and up to epicure quality. Romano's will be open Easter Sunday ... The scene is set for a festive Easter Sunday at JIM SNIADECKI'S SCOTTY CAMPRIELL'S. Manager Richard Trainor has gone all-out to decorate this Redwood City restaurant with a colorful Easter motif. The regular dinner menu will be featured ... Pretty senoritas in traditional Mexican costumes take guests to their tables at the LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame. Cocktalls also served in the cantina, with entertainment from 7 to 11 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays. ...

ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, the new continental restaurant on San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," will feature the regular dinner menu from 3 p.m. to midnight on Easter Sunday. Enjoy dinner entrees like Scallops of Veal Saute and Breast of Chicken Tiffany at the regular price ... Sunday brunch is a special treat at the new LA BELLA PASTA on the boardwalk overlooking the lagoon at Edgewater Place Shopping Center, Foster City. Advance reservations are now being accepted for Easter Sunday dinner, which will be served from 1 to 8 p.m. (brunch will not be served on Easter) ... Sometimes its the customers who are the best entertainment—and this is true at JOHN'S PLACE, the longtime "working man's bar" in downtown Burlingame. JERRY LYERLA'S friendly clientele drops by for a drink, breakfast, lunch or dinner, and cordial conversation. Also pool tables and shuffleboard. On Sunday nights there's live western and country music and dancing.

Westmoor High's Tony Limutau, an all-North Peninsula League quarterback and basketball player, did what any devoted athlete would do on a day off — or off day — Thursday. He attended the Westmoor-Terra Nova track meet and saw his school upset the Tigers 77-59, thanks to Eric Raphael (photo at right) who won two events, including the 220 against Terra Nova's Chris Parker - despite the twin burdens of light rain and a comb in his right hand).

Westmoor spikes upset Terra Nova

Westmoor High suddenly finds itself as the team to beat in North Peninsula League track after upending favorite Terra Nova Thursday,

"We were really up for this meet," said Westmoor Coach Ron Dimmagio. "After we won, it took me two hours to get the kids out of the locker room."

The big upset of the meet came in the 330 low hurdles. Westmoor's Paul Edwinson, who had finished no better than third this year, upset heavy favorite Mike Brown. The Tigers' Stan Peterson upended the Rams' Kurt Larcher in the half Eric Raphael added wins in the 100 and 220-yard dashes for the Rams, and hurled the discus 154-8.

In the girls' division, Terra Nova downed Westmoor 76-32. Kerry Lauer had double wins for the Tigers and Renee Jackson scored double victories for the Serramonte kept its hopes for the NPL title alive by whipping Jefferson 82-43.

In the feature race of the meet, Ron Crenshaw bested Jeff's Tabby Davenport in the 330 low hurdles in 40.6. Crenshaw also won the high hurdles. Art Diaz won both sprint races for ferson.

Jeff topped Serramonte 48-36 in the girls' division. Vanessa Woods won two events for Jeff, as did teammate Gwyn Pressley. Powerful South City dominated Oceana 104-28.

Quick Carl Montgomery won the 220 and 440-yard races for South City, and Mike Tyler had a nice discus throw of 150-11 for Oceana. In the girls' division, South City defeated Oceana 57-33. Carla Clay won the discus and shot put for the Lyle Newcomer - a rich legacy

BY CHRISTOPHER STAVE

Lyle Newcomer's battle with leu-

It was four seasons ago that he first told one of his Skyline College basketball teams about the disease. But he cautioned them to tell no one else. "And if it does come out, I'll deny it," he said. No one told.

Newcomer was characteristically honest about the fight when he first came to Skyline five years ago, but Athletic Director Walt Rilliet reportedly told Newcomer, "You're the man we want. We'll deal with the problem when it comes up."

Finally, this season, the disease took a heavy toll, and much of the time Newcomer was separated from his team. He returned in time to see them make their fourth state playoff appearance in five years. But he

By tacit agreement, members of the media wrote nothing. Newcomer didn't want the kind of fanfare that attended the death of former Cal quarterback Joe Roth.

Newcomer's death last Saturday night at age 40 sent waves of sadness throughout the local sports community and throughout the state

In a mere five years he had left such a mark on the local scene both in his dealings with his players and his approach to the game he's certain to be remembered every time a local team, using the Newcomer system, runs a sideline fast break

His record on the court was remarkable. At Skyline, 114 wins, 43 losses, a .726 winning percentage. For his career, 308 wins, 129 losses. a .704 percentage. Skyline was Coast Conference champion three times, including this last season. Eleven of his Skyline players went on to four-year college ball. One is coaching. One is playing professionally in Europe. Twice Newcomer was named California Community College Coach of the Year, most recently this year.

But no one who knew Newcomer was disposed to speak of his court achievements.
"I think his record is clear," said

Rilliet. "It shows he was a winner on the court. The best word I could use to describe him is 'champion.'
"We hire teachers here first, then coaches. But Lyle had the ability as a teacher. He always bent over backwards to help not only his athletes, but his day students as well.

"The players I've been in touch with have all responded with great sadness. Sure they are sad, but the reaction I get is one of mutual respect. That's the kind of pattern he set for himself with his life — the ability to get close to his players and yet receive great respect.

"He was always more than a coach," said Bob Kilpatrick, a member of Skyline's 1975 state championship team. "He was more like a father, or a brother, a Newcomer's biggest coaching rival was Menlo College's Bud Presley. It was an interesting circumstance - two of the best basketball coaches in California, at any level coaching in the same conference, in the same County — which is one reason the conference title hasn't left the County for seven years.

Newcomer's teams ran, getting the ball upcourt quickly on the fast break, setting it all up with a zone defense. Presley's teams play intense man-to-man defense, and run a deliberate attack at the other

Perhaps it's not surprising that the series between the two coaches ended 7-7.

"I was very saddened by it." said Presley. "I had great respect for him. It's sad to all of us in the profession. It comes as a shock to me - I felt he would recover. He sad for them as well. They lost a tremendous person.

"He was an exceptional coach who taught so well. Sure, we had our battles on the court, but afterwards it was friendship. They were friendly battles. We had a wonderful relationship. We enjoyed playing each other.

"When I called him a few weeks ago, he said the treatment was going well and he sounded optimistic, said he was feeling better, and I thought maybe he would get better. This is a sad, terrible thing.

Newcomer started his coaching career at Washington High in San Francisco, where he coached D and JV teams to a combined 21-2 record. With the B and C teams at Compton High the mark was 62-6. At Bonita High in LaVerne he took a team that had been 2-12 and raised it to 12-12 in

At Miraleste High in Palos Verdes, from 1968-74, his record was 99-66, and his team made the CIF

Anong the people who recommended Newcomer for the Skyline job were John Wooden of UCLA and Bob Boyd of USC.

"Lyle Newcomer is a loyal, dedicated, co-operative man," wrote Wooden. "He is a strong family man He has great rapport with youth of all ages.

"Newcomer and Wooden were not natural friends," said Rilliet, "but they became close because of mutual respect and basketball knowledge.

Newcomer is survived by his wife Cecilia and daughters Molly (11) and "The family was with him at the end," said Rilliet. "It was an an extremely happy family . . . the family took it well, and is concerned about the players, past and present. The family was close to the play-

The folly of baseball pennant predictions

why I refuse to make predictions, like, for example, on the baseball season. My standard answer is, what in heck do I know? Every supposedly genuine baseball expert in the world - that would be big league managers, coaches, executives (no, not players) — makes predictions every year that are seldom even close, except for the obvious ones, like the Yankees. These guys eat and sleep baseball, live and die with it, make their living from it, and most of them have no idea of what the final standings are going to be. Yet, TV "sportscasters" by the dozen, guys who seldom get out of the studio, and don't know a helluva lot when they do, deluge us nightly on the 6 o'clock news with straight-faced prognostications. Writers, of all people, actually print predictions, offering posterity a permanent, indelible record of their ignorance. At least the TV guys have a chance of the public forgetting their predictions, probably because they themselves are so

I guess that in the end Las Vegas bookies have about the most consistent record, but if they do guess wrong, it could cost you a lot of money.

I will say this about our Giants and our division. I think it will be a close race, maybe even a three- or fourteam race, and that if the Giants have the edge, it will be not only in pitching but also because they have a better bench than either the Reds or the Dodgers, who seem to be their chief protagonists. I mean, how strong can the Dodger bench be when they've stocked it with former Giants who populated their bench when the team

Another strength the Giants have is a subtle and therefore under-publicized one - left-handed pitching.

Le Pacini

I haven't made a thorough check of major league roster, but I don't know of another team that has as much southpaw strength, both in pure numbers and in quality. In case you've forgotten, the Giants have two starters in Vida Blue and Bob Knepper, long and middle relief-spot starters in Dave Roberts and John Curtis (although Curtis probably will be used exclusively in relief this year), and the great short relief man, Gary Lavelle. That's five, count 'em, five.

Additionally, down on the farm, perhaps just a year away, are Phil Nastu and Bill Bordley.
There are many teams in baseball who would be willing to settle for two or three solid southpaws on their

So what difference does it make, you ask, what side a pitcher throws from, as long as he's good? Don't ask me why, but proportionately speaking, southpaws fail less than do the standard starboard siders. They're just generally better. I've asked many players over the years why lefties seem to be harder to hit, and have come up with a composite answer of "I don't know, they just throw funny." Many good righthanded hitters have told me that they'd much rather face a good righthander than a good southpaw, or even only a fair southpaw. From the purely practical standpoint, of course. hitters simply see less of lefties, so don't have as much time to adjust to them. It seems like only a few years ago the Giants were so desperate for lefthanded pitching.

One prediction (actually, more a judgment) I did make here a few weeks ago that has been borne out is the placement of Terry Whitfield rather than Bill Madlock in the second slot in the batting order, dropping Maddock to third. There was much assumption at the time that Billy North was signed that with North going to the leadoff spot occupied by Madlock last year, it automatically would mean the second spot for Madlock.

As I pointed out at the time. Madlock's propensity for hitting into double plays could neutralize whatever North might do by way of getting on base. I also postulated that a two-time National League batting champ might be reluctant to perform the sacrifices required for the second man in the lineup.

But more significant, I felt, is the fact that Madlock is a first-ball hitter, which is exactly what a secon is a first-ball nitter, which is exactly what a secondplace hitter can't be, because he must be patient, take a lot of pitches to give the speed merchant on first base a chance to pick his spots for stealing.

On the other hand, I pointed out that a second-place hitter, if he follows a leadoff man who gets on base often and is a base stealer, will see a lot of fastballs because a catcher doesn't want to be trying to throw a man out on curves, changeups and knuckleballs: And Whitfield is not only a good fastball hitter and the co-holder of the San Francisco Giants record for most sacrifice hits in a Francisco Giants record for most sacrifice hits in a season, but also a lefthanded hitter who is fast enough to avoid DPs and adroit enough with the bat to hit behind

Although I agree that big league umpires are under paid in comparison to other major league officials, and that there could be some chaos without them, I believe they are fighting a losing battle because they apparently have missed a simple point. Baseball owners really don't give a damn about umpires because they don't draw people into the stadiums

Theologian-futurist looks at what's coming

Ask any group of people which point in time — past, present, future — is most important. Some will answer "past", saying either it was better or, if they had done something differently, today would be better.

'Most will answer

''present.'' It's become very popular to talk about how "today" is the only time we can experience fully, the sum total of our yesterdays, the seed of all our tomarrows.

Poll takers say only three percent in any group is concerned seriously about the future. Perhap one reason we are less future-oriented than 100 years ago when "laying by for a rainy day" was a way of life is because the future seems filled with massive, rapid, disruptive change, and any change, even the most gradual, must be got-ten used to. There is also what some classify as a fear of the future, a feeling that the home/ex-perienced, happy or not, is preferable to the unknown.

In recent years, a number of writers, some of them calling themselves futurologists because they study the future scientifically by constitutions and the second se cally by creating models of what might happen by using varied data gleaned from today's "facts," have attempted to present ways in which the general public might consider and conront tomorrow.

Aimed at the popular level of the "today" generation, Charles Reich's The Greening of Amer-ca', Alvin Toffler's "Future Shock" and Hal Lindsey's "The Late Great Planet Earth," among oth-ers, became runaway bestsellers and, as we approach the millenium, the begin-ning of a new thousand year period, show dramatic effect on contemporary

A "futures" book pub-lished last year by John Knox Press probably never will make the best-seller list. But, "Futures: Human and Divine" may become required reading for the three percent who admit serious concern about tomorrow. Author Ted Peters is a Lutheran pascurrently associate professor of systematic theology ("Christian doc-trine with philosophy added," he describest it) at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Following up recently on a magazine bit about his book, I interviewed Peters at home, which, until he and his family find more suitable housing, is the president's quarters at the seminary atop a ridge in the Berkeley hills. Lodged in one wing of PLTS's administration building (a Spanish style baronial mansion whose great hall boasts an oak-beamed tooled leather covered ceiling built by a 1920s million-aire who fell bankrupt before he could occupy it) Peters' upstairs study with its book-lined shelves and narrow casement windows overlooking most of the central Bay Area, provided a securely anchored setting for freewheeling talk about the future.

For Peters, fascination with the future is intrinsi-cally religious. As he says, 'The future itself, even in secular circles, seems to take on many of the quali-ties we ordinarily ascribe to the divine: mystery, transcendence, an extrahuman power to save us, and an ability to determine the ultimate value or nonvalue of anything that exists in the present."

As a student some 10 years ago linking theology ("thinking about God") and history (studying the achievements of man) in interdisciplinary pursuit of his doctoral degree. Peters discovered a buried utopia in the social sciences, "a vision of the perfect world" as well as what amounted to an almost compulsive fixation on the year 2000.

Today Peters observes social scientists and those involved in day-to-day decision-making involving human futures, after the do-your-own-thing's arly 70s, expressing rea-vakening interest in ethics nd morals, but not considering their viewpoints at all "religious." Increas-ingly, those who seek to understand the future and help humanity ease its way into it, while continuing to oncentrate on the human-tic belief in man's ability tter himself, predict a

Peters sees a need to transcend this view of human capability, for his-tory has shown that humans, in and by them-selves, are not wholly capa-ble. To transcend, Peters views the future in terms of Christ's "kingdom come" and in his book advances a novel thesis: that creation is not fin-ished; that God, Himself, is incarnate Word of God, is "the future made present." To make his point, still "coming to be"; and that Jesus Christ, as the agree that to attempt to explore the range of possi-bilities Peters opens up with his definitions and applications is beyond the scope of this column. That isn't to say that Peters' ideas are beyond the grasp of the average layman. For anyone already introduced to the writing of the futur-

ily. For those who profess and practice Christianity openly in a day and age where being religious often is equated with cultism and loss of personal freedom, his text is a delight, for in it the person, such as I, who finds no conflict between "science" and "religion" finds "answers" for those who are yet una-ble or unwilling to recon-cile the two.

Peters admits to under-taking his book as "a response to the field (futu-

Also, scientists, among them many astronomers, are beginning to understand that everything is not explainable nor measurable in terms of scientific "fact" and are beginning to accept that "realities exist outside of science." Peters outside of science." Peters sees the very real possibil-ity of reconciliation between science and reli-gion as humanity "clamors for wholeness."

the World Future Society. His book is a featured workshop selection which he will introduce to the group at its Southeastern Regional Conference in Atlanta in October.

By spring, 1980, if his writing schedule remains constant, Augusburg Publishing House will issue his "Faith and the Future," a parish level, laymanoriented, study guide for the Christian life. Already planned for publication in 1981 in his text for theology 1981 in his text for theology students entitled "Christine

Once again, in an effort to raise money for the yearbook, the dedicated staff is selling Bunny-Grams. With catching phrases such as "You're no bunny 'til some bunny loves you" to attract students, the sales so far have been a success. Students purchase a card, fill in a message, and on a designated date, chocolate bunnies will be delivered to those people whose names appear on the front of the cards. What a great way to celebrate

Congratulations are in order to the schools' Black Student Union, which presented a talent and fashion

Thanks are in order to the many Westmoor students who participated in the April 1 Superwalk for the March of Dimes. Newsletters and sponsor sheets were seen all over Westmoor and many students devoted their time and efforts to raising money to fight birth defects.

I hope a lot of students are better informed of the annual Close-Up trip to Washington, D.C. Many of the trip's participants went to various English classes to s their experiences and observations to students as well as urge them to go on the trip next year. Anyone interested should sign up on the sheet posted on Mr. Simon's office

Giannini for tax relief bill A campaign promise made to senior citizens last fall by County Assessor Roland E. Giannini for expanded tax relief will be carried out when the State Legislature introduces AB. Legislature introduces AB

Giannini said last week he is expecting the bill to be introduced by assemblymen John Thurman and Henry Mello

He said the bill will prov ide more relief to ser with lower incomes and also will expand present relief to include more seniors. Procedurally, relief will be easier to qualify for and will come before payment of property taxes rather than after, as is the Giannini said he and Gerald Cochran, Del Norte assessor and president of the California Assessors Association, contacted Sacramento legislators interested in pursuing the legislation.

Mello, an assemblyman from Monterey County who is chairman of the State Committee on Aging, took the lead in finalizing the bill, Giannini said.

While present relief operates on a graduated scale, the new proposal will provide for property tax exemptions of $30,000 for seniors 62 and over with incomes of $15,000 or less.

Also, seniors in that age category who are renters will receive an increase in renters' credit from $37 to Active support of the bilt by seniors and their organi-zations is urged by Gianwave's about to break for spring.

One bright morning, every overweight person in the neighborhood opens the paper, turns on TV, or flips a magazine page. Instantly, there's the shape of summer to come in ads for bathing suits, a commercial for suntan lotion, or an article on the streamlining of fashan average 11/2 to 2 pounds per week on a nutritionallybalanced low-calorie eating program. You know how many weeks you have until your summer deadline. If you want to lose more, plan to diet on through the summer. You'd be surprised at the agreeable difference in your appearance that a 10 to 15-pound loss makes.

How soon fat becomes thin rests on how fat is fat. If you have 12 pounds to lose, you'll be at goal range faster Should dieters diet? Sometimes, no. The middle of life crisis like giving up smoking, is a poor diet time. Most experts agree that dieting itself is a major project,

What about yo-yoing — losing, gaining and losing? Crashing off huge amounts and putting them back on quickly might be destructive. But dieters are an optimistic crew; they keep trying. Dieters need not yo-yo. They can diet and maintain. There's no better time than now to begin your final diet.

Start with a dinner dish like Hungarian Veal Chops. HUNGARIAN VEAL CHOPS

3/4-inch thick

1 tablespoon dired onion flakes 1 envelope chicken broth mix

1 cup boiling water 1 tablespoon paprika

4 ounces buttermilk

In large sprayed skillet, brown veal chops on both sides. Add onion flakes, saute a few minutes. Dissolve chicken broth mix in boiling water. Pour over chops. Add paprika, salt, caraway seeds. Cover and lower heat to simmer. Cook for 20 minutes. Uncover skillet. Cook about 10 minutes longer until most of liquid evaporates. Stir in buttermilk, heat about two minutes. Do not boil.

just send along a self-addressed, stamped envelope (No. 10) to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116. Write "cooking tips" on the inside flap. Good morning, good cooks.

Sunday is Easter and I'm sure the youngsters in our family would vote for jelly beans and chocolate bunnies includes pineapple cheese spread, which adds a flavorful moistness to the cake. Canned peaches are tucked inside this cake and it is brightly painted with red cinnamon drops that melt during baking. Finished off with a shiny glaze it is really a beauty.
